What International Socialism Demands:

1. Collective ownership of public utilities and all industries in the hands of Trusts and Combinations.
2. Democratic management of such collective industry.
3. Reduction of the hours of labor and progressively increased remuneration.
4. State and National Insurance for the workers and honorable rest for old age.
5. The inauguration of public industries to safeguard the workers against lack of employment.
6. Education of ALL children up to the age of 18 years. No child labor.
7. Equal political and civil rights for men and women.

If you believe in the above vote with the Social Democrats.

Capitalism Makes People Homely!

In Chicago not long ago a little school girl took her own life because she was stung to the quick at the gibes of her mates over her homeliness. She left a pathetic little letter, which was published in the papers, the editors of which used the incident to do a little sermonizing in the usual foolish, insipid, capitalistic way. Let us do a little, in a socialistic way, just to show the difference.

THAT LITTLE SUICIDE WAS HOMELY BECAUSE OF THE CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM—never mind now about that ineredulous sneer or loud guffaw, we mean what we say and will submit our proofs.

To begin with, it hardly needs to be said that the human face is an index to the nature and the physical condition of the human body. The good natured man carries the index to his good nature in the linaments of his face and we are attracted to him on sight. On the other hand, the man racked and rendered ill-tempered by poor health, also carries the tell-tale information of his condition in his features. The dyspeptic, the morbid, the sensual types come to be easily picked out as we meet with them through life. The face of the vicious man warns us against him. The face of the crafty man the same. The criminal face is easily spotted by the trained man-taker and many arrests are made on suspicion by the police, because of this fact.

Take a walk down a city street at early morning when the procession of workers, clerks and shirkers are going to their daily working or shirking places, and see how easily you can pick out the factory workers from the office workers, the prosperous from the non-prosperous, merely by a scrutiny of their faces. If there are exceptions, they merely go to prove the rule.

The over-driven and over-worked stage horses in New York that used to excite the pity of the large hearted and the gibes of the unfeeling, were unsightly and homely because they were overstrained. Just so the overworked factory slave. His whole figure, as well as his face, betrays his servitude. Can he hand down to his immediate descendants as good health as he should or as perfectly formed bodies? Is the little boy who trudges along the tow-paths of the canals in Holland taking the place of a horse in dragging a canal boat through the sluggish waters, growing up in deformity by reason of the great hawser that passes over his shoulder and constricts his chest, can such a child grow up to perfect physical manhood and beget healthy and well-formed children? Can the Pennsylvania coal miner, can the sweat-shop operative, can the dwellers in basements, can the overworked farmer, dried up and exhausted at fifty, can any of these victims of capitalism bring healthy and good looking children into the world?

For what is true beauty but physical perfection and symmetrical features through which shines a sunny nature?

It is easy to see how the nature of a person changes the face. Take the crafty man. His crafty thoughts affect the muscles of the face.

He will come to have a crafty expression, and that crafty expression will grow to be permanent. So with the vicious nature. And the influence of surroundings cuts a mighty big figure. Take a look at the darlings of the rich, and then compare them with the children of the poor playing in dirty streets. There is as much difference between them as there is between the proud-stepping, glossy millionaire's coach horse and the forlorn nag that draws a dray.

It is a proper claim to make that if the rich class were ranged in one line, and the working class in another line, the number of beautiful, comely faces in the first line would far outnumber those in the second line. This is because, barring their misbehavior, the rich are able to live more nearly normal lives than the workers. There is no abiding anxiety in their faces, their creature wants are abundantly supplied, and they manage to get, in various ways, enough exercise to keep them in fair physical condition. They are able to possess culture and the resulting refinement is mirrored in their countenances. On the other hand, the working class works harder and longer each day than the human race was ever intended to work or that is good for the physical well-being, especially as most of that work is one-sided work and over-exercises some muscles and under-exercises others. The working class lives on poor food, lives amidst conditions that are often unhealthful, and is shut out from social refinements and refining influences. Misshapen with toils, victims of disease, and denied the education and general knowledge that money buys, their economic situation cannot help getting into their faces. And so we can well say that it is capitalism that robs the working class of its right to be comely and physically perfect.

In the state of society which will undoubtedly obtain under Socialism, when people will cease to live onerous lives, when they will not live in the knowledge of a great social injustice turning them into unceasing victims, when comradeship, brotherhood and kindness of heart will illumine every face, when disease which is superinduced by poverty and financial pinch, will have disappeared, when there will be social effort at bodily perfection and mental refinement, when books will be accessible to all and all have time for reading, when science and music and art will be engrafted into the daily life, when the necessity for craftiness, greediness and sharp-practice will have departed forever, when the earth will blossom as the garden it should be and the filth, the smoke and grime of city life as we now know it will be gone, when true, wholesome, and radiant family life will be possible to all, when women will be accounted the equal of men as members of the human family, when the vices will pine away because of the growing individual self-respect, when the necessity for exploitation of man by man will no longer exist, then, and not till then, will the human race be truly beautiful, and real beauty shine from every face.

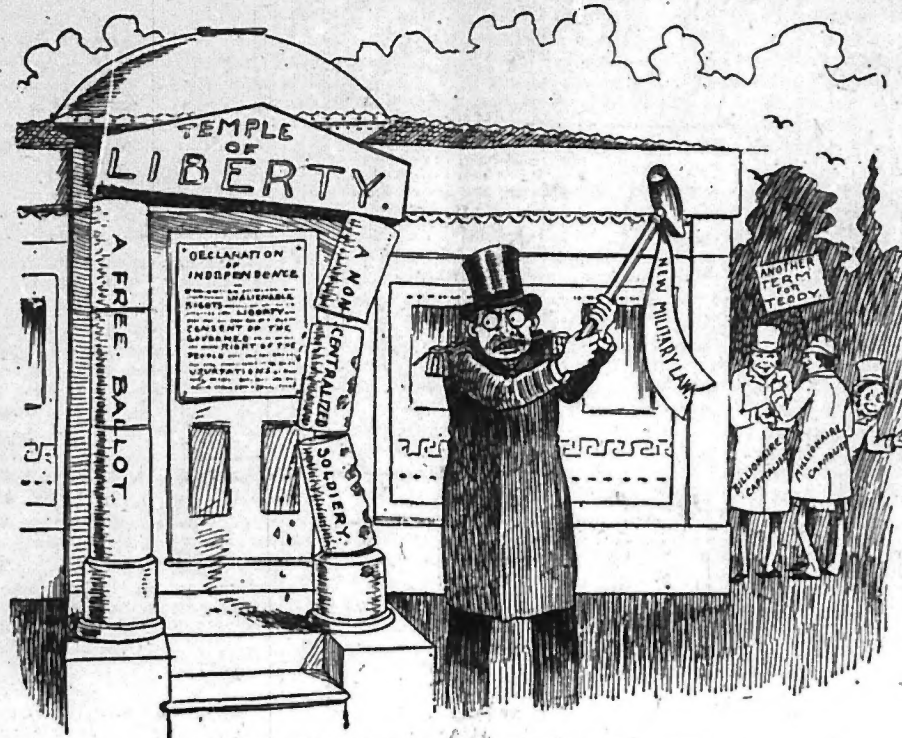

Now do you see why we claim that capitalism cheats the workers out of their right to be comely? And do you not see, also, that the Socialists preach a more practical sermon from the text offered by the suicide of that poor little Chicago girl than the capitalist press, which is interested in perpetuating the capitalist system!

The Fire and Police board of Denver (a capitalistic outfit, of course, although the working people are the majority in Denver the same as in other places) has forbidden the use of the streets for meetings, except to religious bodies. Comrades Fox and Osborn proceeded to ignore the rule and when they opened up on a side street, were promptly arrested. The judge before whom they were taken, seems to have realized that it was a high handed proceeding and released them, saying that the courts would not sustain the police board. The next night another street meeting was held and the speakers were again arrested. State Secy. Martin in trying to find out if bail would be allowed was slapped in the face by the police captain. On the trial the police judge imposed a fine of $25 each, in order to permit an appeal to be taken. On the following night Comrade Osborn was again arrested and fined, but the fine was suspended pending the result of the appeal. It came out on the trial that the police were ordered not to molest the Salvation Army, but to stop the Socialist talk at all hazards. The Denver Socialists have taken the right course in the matter and should persist in their right to free speech until the matter is settled right. In this connection, as comrades in other places are likely to run up against the same official game, it may be well to familiarize them with the words of the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof or abridging the FREEDOM OF SPEECH, or of the press; OR THE RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE PEACEABLY TO ASSEMBLE AND TO PETITION THE GOVERNMENT FOR A REDRESS OF GRIEVANCES."

Organized Labor's Enemies.—The conviction of Murphy, treasurer of the New York Stonemasons' Union, for stealing the funds obtained by blackmailing employers, disposes of the vicious theory that it is no crime for one grafter to rob another. If the theory of Murphy's defense could be sustained in law, it would be legal and right for a burglar to crack an Asphalt Trust promoter's safe and appropriate the contents. It was proved by the testimony of Murphy's own witnesses that the money was obtained by a regular committee of the union and placed in his hands as treasurer, and that he gave it to members of the blackmailing committee and to the trustees of the union for their personal use whenever they demanded it. Although more than sixty men appear to have shared the loot, there must have been a larger number of members of the union ignorant of the graft and mere dupes of the leaders.

As might have been expected, D. M. Parry, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, makes the case of the grafting walking delegates in New York a pretext for an intemperant attack upon all organizations. With his usual reckless violence of speech and disregard for facts, Parry says:

Labor unions are the only organizations on earth that seem to prefer to be led by criminals, brigands, and social outcasts.

It might be inferred from that vicious sentence that Mr. Parry had never heard of such organizations as the Pennsylvania political machine, the Democratic party in Missouri, Tammany Hall, and the syndicates which work financial bunco games to rob confiding persons of their savings. The stonecutters' committee of blackmailers doubtless learned the hold-up trick from political grafters and they divided their loot after the fashion set by eminently respectable trust promoters.

The demoralization of unionism disclosed in New York is likely to give impetus to the Parry movement toward organization of capital for aggressive

PARTY ATTITUDE TOWARD UNIONISM AND FUSION.

The two following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the National Committee at its annual meeting at St. Louis, January, 1903:

The National Committee of the Socialist party in annual session assembled, hereby reaffirms the attitude of the party toward the trade-union movement as expressed in the resolution on the subject adopted by the Indianapolis convention of 1901.

We consider the trade-union movement and the Socialist movement as inseparable parts of the general labor movement, produced by the same economic forces and tending towards the same goal, and we deem it the duty of each of the two movements to extend its hearty co-operation to the other in its special sphere of activity.

But we are also mindful of the fact that each of the two movements has its own special mission to perform in the struggle for the emancipation of labor, that it devolves upon the trade unions to conduct the economic struggles of the working class, that it devolves on the Socialist party to fight the political battles of the working class, and that the interests labor as a whole will be best conserved by allowing each of the movements to manage the affairs within its own sphere of activity without active interference by the other.

The Socialist party will continue to give its aid and assistance to the economic struggles of organized labor regardless of the affiliation of the trade unions engaged in the struggle, and will take no sides in any dissensions or strife within the trade-war on labor, and nothing but ill can come of such a conflict.—Phila. North American.

Is he the "Man on Horseback"?—During President Roosevelt's extensive western trip there has been much unconcealed regret and evidently much concealed that he always seemed to be in the happiest mood and wrapped in the most congenial atmosphere when he was talking of war. It is true that his talk was of preparedness for war as a means to preserve peace, but that is trite, and without saying, and so it looks as if the much iteration of the subject by the President should be accepted evidence that after the preparation is complete it would be fine to practically demonstrate how complete and perfect it is. This over-much talk of war when no war cloud lowers is unfortunate if not unimpaired.

Appropos to this is the following from the Chicago Record-Herald, which is strongly inclined, as a rule, to be a friendly critic:

President Roosevelt says that a weak man with a poor gun will beat a good man with a club. This is true, but the United States has not reverted from guns to clubs, and there has been no indication that such a reversal was probable or that there was any special reason for harping upon guns and clubs and sticks and fists. In our only military contests now we have both the strong men and the guns on our side, while our enemies are lucky if they possess knives. They are shot down like helpless animals, the fatalities being as fifty to one against them. This is the kind of warfare for which we need to compliment the English. Furthermore, the doctrine of the conservation of peace by powder is borrowed from European militarism, and it has long been a favorite subject for American satire. It would be interesting to know if the American people have lost their sense of its incongruities and fallacies.—Farm and Home.

Women and Children Don't Vote.—President Roosevelt wouldn't see Mother Jones when she called on Oyster Bay to enlist his sympathies in behalf of the striking women and children in the Philadelphia textile mills. Still he had time to attack the Washington bookbinders and encourage a man who was proved disloyal to the union. Then, again, the women and children of the mills have no votes, like the miners, for example, and what would a statesman be without votes!—Cleveland Citizen.

The Capital Value of a Man.

If a valuer were appointed to value an estate, and, when he presented his valuation, we discovered that he had entirely omitted one-half of the property, we should be likely to consider him either a rogue or a dunce. Then surely we should consider the valuer of the wealth of nations a huge rogue or a dunce if we discover that he has omitted from his estimate one-half of that wealth.

No commercial political economist has amply recognized the capital value of the "free" human workers.

The capital value of oxen, horses, mules, and asses has been duly recognized, and the capital value of slaves was recognized. How is it that the "free" laborers are supposed to have no capital value?

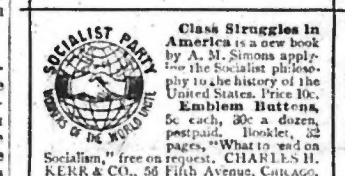

Previous to 1860, the laborers in the Southern States were reckoned as capital. When those men became owners of themselves, did their value, as capital, cease to exist?

The commercial valuers—the orthodox political economists—acting on behalf of the users, refuse to recognize the value of any capital but that owned by users. When the laborers were avowedly owned by users, then the partner who invested in ten men, valued at $10,000, had an equal interest with the partner who invested $10,000 worth of stock and machinery. When ten self-owning men, themselves in a mill, they are not credited with any value as capital or with any right to receive interest on their capital value.

What is the average capital value of a workingman? It cannot be told, exactly, but the real capital value of all the workers is certainly not less than the total value of all other capital, and if the amount of that, in the United States, is, say, sixty billion dollars, and the workers number twelve millions, then the average value of each worker, as capital, is not less than five thousand dollars.

Town Copies by the Town Crier.

There is a bunch of young boys who are employed in the big buildings that tower up from Second street just south of Wells, who furnish the keenest enjoyment each work-day noon to an increasing number of spectators. They play a modified form of baseball, in which a rubber ball is used instead of one professionally "dead" and bats are dispensed with, their palms being used instead. Three sewer gratings that happen to be located in the asphalt pavement at just the proper distances, serve as the bases, and the players, who are divided into two nines occupy the regular positions in the "field" and all the regulation rules go. The seriousness with which the game is played, the almost ceaseless yelling of the players who take in great gasps of sooty smoke each time they open their mouths, and the brilliancy with which some of the games are executed, all go to make the game a rival in interest with the championship variety that Duffy's invincibles put up at the Lloyd street grounds.

These little boys are a study.
Most of them, stoop-shouldered from work, scarcely one of them round-favored and rosy as a boy should be in the play time of life, they manage in these noon-hour games to make their imprisonment for the rest of the day more bearable than it would otherwise be. But even in play they cannot get entirely away from the atmosphere of their capitalistic servitude—"Throw it to first, Sixteen, put 'er to first!" one yells at the other above the din of the downtown streets, and why do you suppose a boy goes by the name of Sixteen? The explanation is simple: Sixteen is his number during work hours, his clock number—for even these children must "ring the clock" on beginning and quitting work in order that capitalism may get every second possible of work out of them!

Capitalistic ownership is written in their faces, their clothes, and is reiterated by their speech. And yet it is a blessed thing that they are able to get some play out of their noon hour! If anyone tries to stop it, or if the authorities interfere, The Herald may be counted on for a good hot protest.

President L. J. Curran of the Interior Freight Handlers and Ware-housemen, arrived in Milwaukee this week to organize the men of his craft. Workers in that line get poor pay in Milwaukee, due to lack of organization, a rate way below the wages paid in Chicago, for instance. The Chicago rates are as follows:

Check clerks, $62.50 per month;
Del. men, $75 per month; Storers and pilers, 1.85 a day; Callers, $1.90 a day; Truckers, $1.75 a day; Sensors and coopers, $60 a month.
There is no discrimination against the union; no work on legal holidays or Labor Day.

A Sheboygan factory, where two of the Socialist aldermen were employed, discharged both of them recently and then blacklisted them so they could not get other work. One of them managed to get other employment, but Ald. Fred. Kuster was not so fortunate and so had to resign as alderman. Comrade Frank Ira has been appointed to the vacancy by Mayor Born.

State Board S. D. P.
The State Executive Board met Aug. 2, all resident members being present except Dr. H. C. Berger and H. Tuttle, the latter excused.
A bill of printing for $56.25 was allowed. It was voted to ask for $700 from the proceeds of the picnic for the payment of the state debts, and that on the receipt of this the board shall pay all outstanding bills. The board also voted unanimously to re-engage W. R. Gaylord as state organizer.

auspices of the Fifth and Eighth ward branches. Members of those branches are requested to meet each are developing some very good speakers, who will later on do work in other parts of the city.

Special Notice.

A meeting of all comrades desiring to attend either the Sheboygan or Racine picnics will be held at Lycium Hall, State and Seventh meeting prepared to pay for tickets.

The regular rate to Sheboygan and return is $3.10. Rate for this occasion (less than half) $1.25.

The time of leaving for those going to Racine will be discussed and decided upon, so proper arrangements can be made for street car accommodations. Time of leaving Sheboygan and Racine, returning, will be determined also.

Tickets for Sheboygan can be had at the following places:

The Herald Office, 614 State st.

L. Sachs, 418 National ave.

for regular railroad tickets. Train for Sheboygan leaves at 7:10 a. m., sharp.

There will be no special tickets for Racine. The regular cars will be used. But to make sure of enough accommodations it may be necessary to run extra cars. The street railway company must know about this as soon as possible.
